PENDING MEASURES WILL HINDER DEVELOPMENT

It is to be presumed that the Evening Gazette voices the thought of the people of Reno in particular and the people of the state in general, for it is an organ of wide circulation and support. If the people of Reno as a rule were in favor of the divorce and gambling bills, or those of Nevada inclined to favor them, the Gazette would not affront them by its opposition, for modern editorials are really more expressive than moulders of public opinion.

Yet the Gazette speaks boldly, but in a dignified manner, its opposition to these measures in the following lines of its latest leader:

Aside from the moral aspect of the questions, we believe that the enactment into laws of the divorce and race track bills now before the legislature will handicap the efforts of those who are working for the upbuilding of the state. The Gazette is deeply concerned in the development of Nevada. It asserts with all the positiveness that it can command that this state is on the eve of a period of permanent prosperity. It knows that a tide of immigration is sweeping this way and the very cream of this can be secured for Nevada if we will but arouse ourselves and reach out for it. The merchants of Reno, in particular, have undergone a severe financial trial within the past few years for which local conditions have been in no way responsible. Admittedly, this city has suffered less, proportionately, than other cities of the country and while this fact is comforting in a degree, the burden, nevertheless, has been hard to bear. The Gazette would not deliberately or knowingly turn one dollar from the door of any merchant or business man of Reno. On the other hand it will spend thousands of dollars in the effort to place Nevada in her proper position among the great states of the union and bring immense sums of money into the state to be distributed here. We believe that the pending measures may hinder instead of help to accomplish this end. We believe that those supporting the bills will be disappointed in results, but we have no desire to censure them. On the contrary, we are willing to concede their right to differ with us. The Gazette takes its position with only the brilliant future of Nevada in view. We have no wish to precipitate a controversy and our energies henceforth will be directed toward bringing people into this state and developing our unlimited resources. We may differ on other subjects but on this, let there be a United Nevada.

OTHERS SUFFER WITH GOLDFIELD

It is regrettable that a damper should have been placed upon the enthusiasm of Goldfield at a time when it was about to realize the dreams of the past seven years and again be a hive of industry. That this damper should have been placed by the strong arm of the law is most particularly to be deplored. The Bonanza is not sufficiently well informed on the merits of the case to criticize the instigators of the litigation, but it merely voices the general regret that is felt by all, except possibly he few hat always benefit by the misfortunes of the many.

Tonopah people were heavy investors in the Goldfield securities that have been thrown upon the bargain counter. Some industrious and frugal people of this city even went to the extent of investing their entire savings in marginal trades and have been "wiped out," a few being even indebted to their brokers for carrying them. If the activities in Goldfields had been permitted to continue, Tonopah people would have reaped rich profits. Unquestionably the physical condition of the properties in the sister camp had not been better in years nor so rich in promise. But the inevitable lawsuits came, and litigation is the bane of a mining camp, as it not only is costly in its primary operations, but it destroys the confidence of the people who invest.

MAKE TONOPAH A CITY SPOTLESS

An organization in Tonopah has for its aim and purpose the bringing about of civic cleanliness. The word has a double signification and the club is insistent upon a dual realization of its plans. The Tonopah Woman's club is the organization referred to and the aims and purposes of the organization are purification of the city in both the moral and physical senses. Acting on the principle of "the sound mind in the sound body," the club is first undertaking the very commendable task of securing metal-covered garbage cans for the city and will make certain that the alleys be cleaned as well as the streets under the new garbage collection system and that trash heaps be removed. The club will take the initiative in having all breeding places for the house fly, the common carrier of disease, destroyed. The estimable ladies who are undertaking this work for making Tonopah the city spotless are worthy of not only commendation but support. Communications on this subject are welcomed by the Bonanza, which will hereafter wield a cudgel in their cause.

OF COURSE SHE WILL

The laws of California and Colorado do not compel women to tell their ages when they register to vote, the requirement simply being that they be 21 or over, but this is not the case in Nevada, according to a Reno attorney who has interpreted the law. Furthermore the registry books are public documents and open to inspection. To incorrectly state one's age when registering is a felony. Now what will the ladies do about it? Will they vote or not? Will they or will they not commit perjury when registering? Nonsense! That ancient "wheeze" about women concealing their age is out of date. If you have any doubts on that subject, just halt the next lady of your acquaintance and propound the question to her. She will tell you, of course she will.

UNITED STATES COULD END WAR

Of what use to the United States will be the markets of the world if the world will not be able to pay its bills? Unquestionably every bale of cotton, every ounce of silver, every crate of machinery, every grain of cereal produced in this country will be in keen demand at the conclusion of the war, but if the war lasts until the credits of the embattling nations are exhausted, of what benefit will this market be? Undoubtedly it is to the advantage of the people of the United States to have peace declared at the earliest possible moment and assistance should be lent to that end for business as well as for humanitarian reasons. There are advanced thinkers and keen reasoners who even hold it is the duty of this nation, as the most powerful of all that remain in neutrality, to start a movement of embargo of all supplies, even of food stuffs, in order to terminate the struggle by the simple, but seemingly cruel, process of starvation.

It is modestly suggested by the Bonanza that the supporters of "liberal" government get in training to sing this song in 1917: "God only knows how dry I am."

Oregon prohibits the manufacture or sale of liquor except for "sacramental" purposes. Surely this is a misprint and "sacriligious" is the word intended.

So they can't kick: The next time we move it will be to a town where all the business men have their feet amputated.

All San Francisco needs to make the Panama-Pacific exposition a success is a couple more volcanoes.

The price of flour is rising as though it were veritably the "cream of wheat."

From the fact that there are 1,212,000 more beef cattle in the country now than a year ago the agricultural department deduces the theory that prices should not go to the high mark predicted. What has the supply to do with the case?

Polygamy is predicted as a result of the war, by reason of the wholesale destruction of men. In that case the male survivors may have additional reasons to endorse General Sherman's well-known views.

With Herman Ridder complaining that the administration favors the allies and Lloyd Griscorn declaring it favors Germany, most of the rest of us are well satisfied of its neutrality.

One of the curious and unexplained things about present conditions is the marvelous increase of our beef exports in spite of the much-harped-on meat shortage in this country.
